

For Immediate Release: Thursday, July 14, 2016

Contact: Jeff Pittman, 443.509.4269

Nearly 10% of Parole and Probation Agent Jobs Still Unfilled as Justice Reinvestment Act Approaches

More than 120 total positions unfilled in Maryland Division of Parole and Probation

Baltimore – Maryland Parole and Probation employees will highlight the severe staff shortages of Parole and Probation Agents and support staff and the lack of hiring by the Division of Parole and Probation at a press conference on Thursday. The state has 14 less Parole and Probation Agents in April, 2016 than in January, 2016 (67 unfilled authorized positions of 695 total authorized positions for agents).

WHEN: 12:00PM, Thursday, July 14, 2016

WHERE: Maryland Parole and Probation Office - 428 East Preston Street, Baltimore, MD

Speakers: Helen Humphries, Senior Parole and Probation Agent, Baltimore
Jason Dubard, Senior Parole and Probation Agent, Leonardtown, MD
Bernard Johnson, Office Secretary, Baltimore

###

AFSCME Maryland Council 3 represents more than 25,000 state and university employees in the State of Maryland, including more than 1,000 employees in the Division of Parole and Probation.